The Only Way To Find Economy

You can only find economy in the store that has found economy for itself. If a store is on Fifth Avenue or Broadway, Manhattan, it has not found economy. Manhattan prices and economy do not go together.

Rents in Brooklyn are much lower than rents in Manhattan. One store in Brooklyn has even lower rent than the other Brooklyn stores—and this is the reason:

Fifty-six years ago Abraham Abraham, one of the founders of this business and a merchant of wide vision, planned a store that should give the people all the choice of fine qualities, all the display of fashion, of New York's best—but at Brooklyn economies. And upon the land which he bought at such a low figure, not many years later, stands the present store of Abraham and Straus, Inc.

For 56 years Abraham and Straus have followed his idea: FIFTH AVENUE ASSORTMENTS AND QUALITY—BROOKLYN PRICES.

Brooklyn and Abraham and Straus have grown and prospered together. You cannot imagine Brooklyn without its Abraham and Straus—a great store with worldwide connections, but with an economy of rent and organization that assures its customers of economy day in and day out.

Not bargains last week or bargains tomorrow, but VALUE, QUALITY AND ECONOMY yesterday, today and tomorrow—the direct result of low rent and a selling policy which have for 56 years been passing A. & S. economies on to YOU.

Women's Fur-Collared and Tailored Suits $49.75

The model pictured has a smart nutria collar in double fold tailored style. Of course, one finds all the details of notch collar, manly finished sleeve and arrow-head embroidered seam ends.
